

Thank you

This the last etype that I will be editing as I will soon be leaving the Faculty.

I would like to thank all of you for your continued support. There are many of you who have become close colleagues. I do hope you will understand that I may not be able to individually thank all of you, but you know who you are. Thank you all.

This Faculty is a wonderful organisation with many, many talented students, staff, alumni, donors and friends. I will miss the contact that I have had with all of you, and in particular the members of the Alumni Council. Michael, Robert, Varoujan, Masaaki, Brain, Ken, and ex-members David and Peter - thank you so much!

I look forward to hearing about the new and exciting directions that the Faculty is taking, and hope to see you at Faculty events.

Thank you,
Sue Lord,
Faculty Development Officer

University of Sydney Architecture

The good, the bad and the ugly.....

Which building is erroneously named after a geometric shape?

The answer to this and many more intriguing questions lies in the new book University of Sydney Architecture launched on 21 March in the Great Hall by Ken Eltis. A large crowd - the largest ever seen at a book launch in the University - was treated to many amusing anecdotes on the history of the buildings of the University. Trevor Howells has included wit in to this wonderful guidebook, as well as recommended walks through the University grounds. This book will be sold through the Chancellor's Shop. Lost but not forgotten

The Faculty is very keen to maintain contact with all of its alumni, donors and friends. Unfortunately we have lost contact with quite a few. We would be grateful if you could take the time to review the list. If you know where these alumni are, could you ask them to fill in their details on the University's Alumni webpage.
